Meribeen's Row Again. Maggie Miller was arrested before Judge Peterman yesterday charged by Amanda Murray, a young colored girl known as "Copey," with profane swearing. She was fined $1 and costs. Later the Miller girl had "Copey" before Judge Phillips charged with a breach of the peace and in default of the customary bond the colored girl was sent to jail for ten days. Both parties live in that malodorous locality, "Meribeen's row," in Alley O.

Two Suspicious Men.

Last evening Officers Dunlap, West and Shorter arrested two men suspected of being crooks. One of them is William E. Conway, and the other's name is not known. They claim to hail from Bellaire, but from letters in their possession it is thought they have recently been in Trenton, N. J., New York and Pittsburgh. Several days ago they were being tried to sell a shotgun and a revolver. In one letter Conway is informed that his brother has been sent to prison for seven months for shooting an officer.

Another Drunken Baby.

The gossip about the white baby left at Alex. Hopkins' residence on the hill, last week, had scarcely ceased when another case of a somewhat similar kind occurred yesterday night. A white girl baby, only five or six days old, was left on the doorstep of Mrs. Jennie Simms' house, on Eoff street, east of the Atlantic engine house. Mrs. Simms says she will keep the baby unless it is claimed. It had no clothing with it, but was simply wrapped up in an old shawl and laid on the door.

It is hoped that he will regain his normal condition.

This river at this point continued to remain at a stationary stage yesterday with a depth in the channel of 10 feet 2 inches, according to the marks at the levee. This stage is partly the result of back water, and is still holding the water back. The ice is still melting in a steady rain set in that will probably result in putting the river up to a stage that will clean out all the ice.

"The Blue Banner of Presbyterianism."

This will be the interesting theme of Dr. Cunningham's sermon to-morrow morning, in the First Presbyterian church. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, in consideration of the fact that the present year commemorates the centennial of its organization, has requested the pastors to call the attention of the people to the history of the church, now closing, as far as it relates to this particular branch of the church. The prominent and useful place which the Presbyterian church has occupied among other denominations, will make the subject one of considerable interest and worthy of the occasion.

THE SCALE DISPUTE.

WHY MANUFACTURERS PREFER K. OF L. CONTROL in their Works Rather than the Amalgamated Association—News in General from the Mines and Factories of Wheeling and Vicinity.

The dispute as to whether the K. of L. or Amalgamated Association's scale shall govern for the next year in the Riverside steel plant and plate mill at Benwood, remains in statu quo. The Amalgamated committee expects to have a conference to-day with a representative of the Riverside. A leading nail and steel manufacturer connected with another company said to an INTELLIGENCER reporter yesterday, said that aside from any mere consideration of the wages to be paid, the K. of L.'s control in a steel works was preferred to that of the Amalgamation because in case of a dispute the K. of L. gave reasonable notice before striking, never leaving their employers with the works in bad shape, while the Amalgamation quits work without warning. Members of the Amalgamation spoken to on this point denied it, saying that only in a very exceptional case, where the provocation was aggravated, was a strike ever resorted to until a conference had been held. They maintained that the K. of L. scale is preferred only because it is cheaper.

Coal River Development.

The following telegram from Charleston, W. Va., has some interesting facts on it:

George W. Day, of Philadelphia, who represents heavy interests in canal lands on Big Coal river, at Peytonia, Boone county, is engaged here procuring information respecting the early development of the coal river region. He is acting in the interests of Philadelphia associates, who express their willingness to co-operate with other coal river land owners in the construction of a branch railroad from their headquarters to connect with the Chesapeake & Ohio at St. Albans.

Such an enterprise, running through the lands of the Peytonia Canal Company and those of the Western Mining and Manufacturing Company would open up about 100,000 acres of the most valuable coal properties in West Virginia. The land is heavily timbered and abounds in splint, canal and bituminous coal of first quality.

Peytonia is but sixteen miles from St. Albans, on the Big Coal river, a deep, narrow stream, that was once looked upon by private enterprise, and on which further improvement was withheld because of the failure of the general Government to assist when solicited.

ASK FOR A CONFERENCE.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 3.—At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Flint Glass Manufacturers' Association to-day, a communication was read from the Flint Glassworkers' Union asking for a conference to settle the strike. The request was accompanied by a revised list of concessions, but as there are five different lists, the manufacturers refused to hold a conference until the other four were presented. As the Union will not produce the other lists until a meeting is agreed upon, the outlook for a conference is not very bright.

Manufacturing Brevities.

The top mill plate department is still the only one at work.

The Jefferson Iron Works are again on full in all departments.

The Joseph Bell Stone Company reports trade better than this time last year.

The Benwood mill factory resumed work Thursday morning with good prospects for a steady run ahead.

Freeman's works, up the river, have quit making sewer pipe and put the whole force on fire brick for the present.

Sweeney & Sons this week shipped a large amount of machinery to the Green Glass Company, at Gadsden, Ala.

The Caldwell & Peterson Company's works have lately been idle, making repairs with a view to a steady run and increased capacity.

A break at the Bellaire steel works stopped operations there before they had fairly begun, but the repairs will be completed by to-day.

The Bellaire nail factory will resume operations next Monday. This announcement is reliable and will be welcome news to many Bellaire people.

Work is progressing with all practicable speed at the Central glass works, preparatory to resuming the making of glass under the workmen's union scale.

The night turn at the Crescent mill was off Thursday night on account of the scarcity of natural gas. It is not often that the Crescent loses time.

The window glass factories are doing a very fine business for the season of the year, and the outlook for the season is better than for some years previous.

Business continues fair at the Hinge factory. Prices of strap and T hinges were raised somewhat at the National Manufacturers' meeting at Pittsburgh this week.

Joseph Hagen, an old brilliant naller, came to Hammond, near Chicago, where he has a four-machine job. He will return to Steubenville when the Brilliant factory resumes.

The Bellaire blast furnace, under the efficient management of Edward Jones, is turning out good quality of pig iron, and is expected to produce 183 tons each day.

The Riverside nail factory has 224 machines, the Laughlin 192, with room for 226, and the Benwood 173. Each company has two factories. These are the largest three cut nail factories in the country.

Superintendent of Mines Thomas Rison has put eight miners to work in the Jefferson shaft for the purpose of getting out the necessary coal to be used in connection with the operation of the mill.

A number of citizens of Washington, Pa., are investigating the possibility of organizing a joint stock company for carrying on the manufacture of glass. A committee is in consultation with an expert.

It is understood that as soon as the Flint glass workers' wages are adjusted, the Hobbs, Brockmiller & Co. works will start up making the car windows.

One of the vital questions for discussion by the stove manufacturers in convention at Cincinnati, was how to meet the growing demand for increased ornamentation of stoves, which, carrying the cost of manufacture to such a point as to greatly diminish the profit.

The Ohio River Railroad Company run its first passenger train over the Huntington extension, Wednesday, transferring at Point Pleasant, the bridge there not being completed. The officers of the company who were on the train were W. J. Robinson, General Freight and Passenger Agent; C. L. Williams, Assistant Superintendent; and A. J. Fickinger, Chief Engineer.

Charles Carlson, an experienced machanic at the National Rolling Mill, at McKeesport, has made and patented a new machine which, he claims, will turn out more nails than any machine in use. An old ice house there is being arranged by him for operating the new machine. He will place it, besides necessary machinery, two of the machines for cutting nails from wire, and two for cutting from plate.

Messrs. Long & Mortimer are still drilling away at the gas well. They are now down to between 3,500 and 2,000 feet, although the gas is plentiful. The Confession time rock, in which gas is frequently found, seems to be drilled fairly well in this vicinity, as the drill failed to find it. But little trouble has been experienced in drilling the hole, and the gas is being obtained in large quantities, and is equally successful from this time on.

Will Publish the Treaty.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The Reichstag Zeiger says: The governments of Germany and Austria have decided to publish the treaty of alliance concluded between them on October 7, 1879, in order to end the doubts entertained regarding the purely defensive intention of the treaty. Both governments are actuated by a desire to maintain the tranquillity of Europe.

THE UNION BRIDGE.

TO-DAY IS TO SETTLE ITS FATE.

The Election on the $300,000 subscription by the County—Interest felt by all Classes of Citizens—The Desirability of Getting out a Full Vote.

To-day the qualified voters of Ohio county are to decide by ballot whether the county is to subscribe $300,000 to the capital stock of the projected Union bridge, and by this subscription secure the bridge and the eight or ten new railroads its construction will assure. The manufacturers feel a personal interest in the success of the project, because the vote is indirectly to decide whether or not they are to be placed on as favorable a basis as Pittsburgh and other competing points in regard to freights. Workingmen are interested in it, because the building of the bridge will give employment to hundreds of men and make wages better. Merchants are interested, because the building of the bridge will give more back to cloth. Farmers are interested, because it will give them an improved market. Every body is interested, for it will make time bright and money plenty.

President J. M. Scott, of the Central Glass Works, has sent other manufacturers a good example, by hiring a hack and a driver to be used to-day in getting voters to the polls. Live men in all the wards will give their time to influencing the result favorably.

Some question has been raised as to the time of opening and closing the polls. The law governing the election is the same as that governing a general election, which is to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. As possible after sunrise, and close at sunset. This means that to-day's election should be held from 7:30 A. M. to 6:30 P. M. The old advice to "vote early" is timely.

A little opposition was heard of yesterday principally in the country, where many people are quoted as saying that they do not propose to add to their taxes for Wheeling's benefit. The country people forget that annually the city donates a sum twice as large as is paid in the country in taxes, to be used on the country roads.

Boatmen's Views.

The engagement of Miss Vokes at the Opera House last Tuesday and Wednesday evening, was a very successful one. An exchange speaks thus of two of her comedies: "Which is Which?" a one act farce, by S. Thayer Smith, in its action serves to illustrate the perplexities caused an impudent artist, being kept in the dark as to the identity of an heiress with whom a marriage is a desired end. The rich young lady and her poor relation succeed for a time in mystifying the artist, and make many amusing scenes in so doing. The comedy "The Old Maid" by Mrs. Ohara Doremus, introduced Miss Vokes, and afforded her ample opportunities for the display of her many charming gifts as an entertainer. Lord Weldon (Mr. Nelson) has planned to entrap a famous thief and compel him to sup with him in his apartments. A sudden summons from home leads him to delegate his friend, Lord Merton (Courtney Thorpe), to entertain the lady until his return. By accident Lord Merton (Miss Vokes) arrives unexpectedly, in mistake for the circus young woman and carries out the mistaken identity by doing a "bare-back act" on the lounge, during which her fiancé returns. The explanations made an inevitable change of lovers and the curtain falls.

The sale of the Regis minstrels commences at Baumer's music store this morning for the appearance at the Opera House Monday night of McNish, Johnson & Slavin's minstrels. Of this company the Chicago Herald says: Whether it is purely a reward of merit, or whatever the reason may be, these minstrels are meeting with a more cordial reception than has been given to any burnt-cork artists in this city for some time past. At all events, the performance is very clever, and demonstrates the fact that there can be some things that are not colored by race. The company is made up of three colored minstrels, and the "first part" is a novel arrangement, in which the proprietors of the company do their best to stir up the requisite amount of merriment, but fail.

Miss Hinton's Engagement.

Miss Hinton and her company appeared at the Opera House last evening in "Fanchon." Miss Hinton pleased all. Were her company stronger and more even in performance, they would be better than any other company in the city. As it is she is the most attractive Fanchon seen here for many seasons. This afternoon she will give "Poor and Proud" and this evening "Little Barefoot," both very popular plays. The company will be back in the city on Monday night, and will give a certain bright promise for her future, with experience and careful training to develop her undoubted genius.

"True, I'm a Heart."

This enjoyable drama "was given to another good audience at the Grand last night, and as on the night before its likeness to nature enthralled all who were present. It will be given again this afternoon and this evening. The play is the story of those who have not heard the Irish piper and the characteristic songs, nor seen the dancing, should embrace this opportunity to do so.

"Hilarity."

"Hilarity" is a good name for a comedy-farce of the recent school, and Charles A. Loder, the eminent German comedian, is said to have surrounded himself with a company of his own players, and to be at the Grand the first half of next week.

Hx talked as if he had a "frog in his throat," but he was only hoarse; a single bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills relieved the trouble at once. 25 cents.

THE HATFIELD-MCCOY FEUD.

Mr. Howell Replaces Vengeance to the "Magistrate" (Editorial).

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Sir:—The newspaper allegation at present at the head of the Register is out in one of those characteristic editorials (that are the admiration of all Democrats from ex-Senator Camden to "Bash" Price) on my history of the trouble between the Hatfields and McCoy's. He assumes that the circulation of these letters will do the State an irreparable injury, and characterizes them as "nonpartisan lies." In my humble way, Mr. Editor, I have done the very best in my power to give the truth in regard to the murder, pillaging and arson that has characterized the conduct of the Hatfield clan, and am willing to await the arbitration of the official history in the matter. There are two things, however, that must not be lost sight of in this matter, justice to the McCoy's and to the State of West Virginia. Not one of the Hatfield gang, not one of the time murderers now in jail in Pike county could be found on the occasion of my visit, to justify the murder of a single McCoy. That five of the McCoy family have been killed under circumstances that have few parallels in criminal history, there is no question. Why then have not these murderers been punished? Simply and solely because Governor Wilson has baffled the efforts of Governor Backner, of Kentucky, for their apprehension. He has had the requisitions for their apprehension and extradition since September last. Repeated demands have failed to stimulate him to action in the matter. It was better, in his opinion, to allow the blood of the Hatfield clan to stain the soil of the State, than to incur the expense of a hunt for them. He has been a little more than a year old, of consumption (certainly of cancer), and he had two of them on each hand, and as his blood became more and more impure, it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the side, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two years old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (certainly of cancer), and he had a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having used up his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using all freely. One year after another healed, a boy mature forming in each one of these five deep grooves before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of these ugly blotches I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles of CUTICURA, he is completely
